

TYPHOON BAVI – ZHEJIANG, CHINA

August 25, 2020

Dear Valued Customer,

As reported by The National Meteorological Center of China, Tropical Storm Bavi has developed in the West Pacific Ocean. Bavi will move over the warm waters of the East China Sea and will be in an area of light wind shear, or the change in direction and speed of wind in the atmosphere, through Sunday. Rough seas will also be found across much of the East China Sea as the tropical system passes through the area.

Typhoon Bavi may impact Ningbo and Shanghai ports from August 25 through August 26, bringing the risks of strong wind, heavy and flooding rainfall. Due to nature of typhoon, vessel calls and departures may be delayed.

Currently, there is no impact on Ningbo and Shanghai port operations. We will continue to monitor the situation and send additional updates as needed. If you have any further questions or concerns, please contact your APL Logistics Account Manager or local APL Logistics office.

Sincerely,
APL Logistics
